Baby Boutique

A new year is beginning, and Baby Boutique is excited about helping little ones start the new year off right. Thanks to so many generous people making donations over the last few months, we are well stocked with clothing and other essential items for newborns thru about age 2. So now we need to start sharing! If you know of anyone in your church or community who could benefit from what we have to offer, please have them go to www.thebridgenet.org and fill out a Baby Boutique application found under our Resource tab. This will be forwarded to me, and I will contact you for an appointment. We give the parent (or caregiver) a "One Time Only" shopping spree for free! Since we run on donations, our inventory varies.

As always, we continue to accept donations. If you have a donation, please contact me directly to ask questions about what we do and do not accept and make drop off arrangements. We Do Not accept cribs, car seats and a few other items. Thank you for your continued support!

How God Sees Your Ministry

Dr. Lynn Hardaway

Ruth Chou Simons, in her book, "The Way of the Wildflower," points out that some translations of Matthew 6:28 use the word "wildflowers" in the place of "lilies" in Jesus' teaching about freedom from worry.

"Consider how they grow," Jesus said.

The Lord directs our attention away from the hustle and bustle of life and ministry and toward the less significant and often overlooked flowering plants that flourish in the wild places, along the less-traveled paths.

Wildflowers grow where they are planted, which might be in a place where few human eyes will ever see them. They have no desire to impress, and they do not advertise how important their beauty is to the world.

"Wildflowers don't care where they grow." (Dolly Parton) They need no fertilizing or fuss; just a little water, space and sunshine and you will find them bursting with extravagant colors,

if you take the time to consider them.

Jesus pointed out these plants, designed uniquely by the hand of the Creator, are free from fear of the future and are completely dependent upon the provision of their Maker, who makes sure they are dressed like royalty every morning.

They do not have to work or toil or labor to be beautiful; God has put it in their design to blossom radiantly for His glory! As Chou points out, "they exist in the place God put them, crowned with the glory He gave them."

We can sometimes feel like a wildflower; not crazy out of control wild but planted in a place that will never be written up in a church growth magazine. It is unlikely our church will be one of the "100 Fastest Growing Churches in America" and no writer will show up at our door to interview us on principles of ministry success.

In the context of Jesus' teaching, we can worry about our seeming insignificance, or we can choose to radiate God's glory where we are by being the person He has designed us to be.

Find your hope in God's purposeful and precise planting of you and stop wishing you were a fancy rose bush being admired by the masses.

"If God cares so wonderfully for wildflowers that are here today and thrown into the fire tomorrow, he will certainly care for you."

"Beautiful;" that's the word Jesus used to evaluate His thoughts about wildflowers, and that's what He thinks of you and your ministry.

5 Questions for a Productive Start to the

New Year

By Kim Jessie

Sometimes, we begin the year with high hopes of completing projects. We may even plan on doing some wonderful things for God. Below are five simple questions that can assist you in crafting your success in 2026.

What? Make a list of what you want to do. Be specific. Don't use flowery language or big words. Just write down the key parts.

When? Set deadlines for each item. These deadlines would be either start dates for something that would be ongoing or completion dates for things that are one-time successes. Try to organize projects over a timeframe; so, you do not need to rush on anything. Try not to stress yourself or your calendar.

How? Identify what skills, talents, and abilities you already have to accomplish your goals. Additionally, figure out resources, supplies, and tools you already have or that you will need to acquire to accomplish your goals. Making this list early will help you accomplish your goals.

Who? Develop a list of people who can work with you to help you achieve your goals. A team is almost always better than a single person when it comes to working on a goal. People can hold each other accountable and help carry the load. Look for people who are strong where you are not and people who encourage and not discourage you.

Why? This is probably the most important question. Determine the reason for what you want to accomplish. If it is important enough to you, the why will drive your success. Ask if God will be honored by your accomplishments. When you decide to accomplish something that will honor God, that goal becomes more important to you and to others.

ASK GOD.
